Innovation

Our innovation team strives to create 'best-in-class' nutritional products by collaborating with a network of world-class researchers and technical experts. Together, we combine substantiated science and modern technology to identify and cultivate products that meet the highest standards for efficacy and safety.

Additionally, TSI invests in our own clinical research and collaborates with strategic partners who do the same. Each ingredient is backed by a comprehensive technical dossier of clinical studies, safety information and technical specifications. TSI's promise is to deliver proven results to consumers and opportunities to our brand partners that increase growth, profitability and value.

Bioactive Ingredients

Our Bioactive Ingredients Division is built around our internationally accredited, state-of-the-art facilities, our wealth of manufacturing experience and our proficiency and expertise in capabilities ranging from custom synthesis to botanical extraction to fermentation. This division offers a broad range of ingredients including premium botanical extracts, pharmaceutical, supplement and cosmetic grade glucosamine and chondroitin and specialty nutraceuticals.

Our dedicated, cGMP certified Quality Control and Assurance department closely monitors every stage of the production process to ensure we deliver ingredients that exceed our customers' expectations. TSI also offers comprehensive quality and safety assurances through our in-house GLP certified analytical laboratory.

Contract Manufacturing

Our Contract Manufacturing Division links TSI's comprehensive raw material production and sourcing operations with our world-class formulation and manufacturing capabilities. We strive to create a customer focused culture that consistently delivers industry leading service and exceeds quality standards. To do this, we invest significant time and personnel resources to fully understand global nutrition markets and individual client needs.

By providing tailored manufacturing solutions, quality assurance and dependable service, we enable customers to excel and differentiate their business from their competitors.
